In this fresh and innovatory study, Andrew Freeman provides a cool and dispassionate survey of the contents of the armoire de fer, an iron wall-safe discovered hidden within a wall in the Tuileries palace, and throws new light on the mentality of Louis XVI.

CULTURE IN HISTORY Production, Consumption and Values in Historical Perspective

Edited by Joseph Melling and Jonathan Barry

1992 248pp paperback
978 0 85989 380 0 £16.99 / US$31.95

This volume suggests that the boundaries of production and consumption are themselves cultural constructs, formed by changing conceptions of economic and cultural explanation.

THE DEVIL'S BOOK Charles I, The Book of Sports and Puritanism in Tudor and Early Stuart England

Alistair Dougall

2011 illustrated hardback
978 0 85989 856 0 £50.00 / US$90.00

This book examines the controversy surrounding Charles I's Book of Sports and the cultural battle surrounding the question of Sunday observance and traditional revelry in early modern England. It re-examines the events surrounding the re-publication of the Book of Sports in 1633 and reassesses the role of Charles I in the controversy.

EARLY BRITISH SWIMMING 55BC-AD1719

Nicholas Orme
1983 228pp illustrated paperback
978 0 85989 134 9 £20.00 / US$37.50

In 1587 Everard Digby, an extrovert Cambridge scholar, published the first scientific treatise on swimming—and one of the first on any major modern sport. Nicholas Orme rehabilitates Digby as a great pioneer of the history of sport. A detailed history of swimming in Britain from the Romans to the sixteenth century is followed by an account of Digby's life and work and its impact on swimming down to the eighteenth century.

ENGLISH CHURCH DEDICATIONS With a Survey of Cornwall and Devon

Nicholas Orme
1996 264pp paperback
978 0 85989 516 3 £15.99 / US$29.95

Church dedications are as widely used as they are little studied. Frequently forgotten after the Reformation, they were revived in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries with many guesses and mistakes, resulting in numerous alterations. This book surveys their history in England from Roman times to the present day.

ETHICS AND POLITICS IN SEVENTEENTH-CENTURY FRANCE

Edited by Keith Cameron and Elizabeth Woodrugh
1996 240pp illustrated hardback
978 0 85989 466 1 £60.00 / US$110.00

This thought-provoking book deconstructs the ethical and political framework supporting and circumscribing the actions of a powerful élite. It offers a radical reassessment of the absolute values on which was founded the authority of the established church and the King.

THE FAILURE OF POLITICAL EXTREMISM IN INTER-WAR BRITAIN

edited by Andrew Thorpe
1989 96pp paperback
978 0 85989 307 7 £13.99 / US$25.95

Andrew Thorpe and Bruce Coleman examine the success of the Labour and Conservative parties in inhibiting communism and fascism and in maintaining their commitment to parliamentary democracy.

FROM VALOIS TO BOURBON Dynasty, State and Society in Early Modern France

Edited by Keith Cameron
1989 186pp paperback 978 0 85989 310 7
£18.00 / US$ 35.00

In August 1589 Henri III, the last of the Valois Kings of France, was assassinated.

This ill-fated and much maligned son of Henri II and Catherine de' Medici was succeeded by the first of the Bourbons, Henri IV and King of Navarre. This collection of studies by international experts examines fresh evidence and casts new light upon the interpretation of the character and politics of the last of the Valois and Henri IV and the Bourbon dynasty.

GEORGE II Puppet of the Politicians?

Jeremy Black
2007 320pp hardback
978 0 85989 807 2 £45.00 / US$80.00

Black has exploited rich archival resources to piece together a figure who was the pivot in an often finely balanced – and sometimes dangerously unbalanced – fledgling political system.

'George II has been victim of some tepid biographies, but at last he has been rescued by Black's welcome life.'
(BBC History Magazine, January 2008)

GOVERNMENT, PARTY AND PEOPLE IN NAZI GERMANY

edited by Jeremy Nookes
1980 108pp paperback
978 0 85989 112 7 £12.99 / US$23.95

Nazism rose to power by exploiting the economic crisis, political breakdown and social disintegration of the last years of the Weimar Republic.

The background to the crisis and to the Nazi promise to establish a new 'national community' is outlined by the editor in his Introduction and the extent to which this promise was fulfilled is then examined in four studies.

THE GREAT WAR AND GERMAN MEMORY Society, Politics and Psychological Trauma, 1914-1945

Jason Crouthamel
2009 256pp
hardback 978 0 85989 842 3
£50.00 / US$85.00

The central focus of this book is the traumatized German war veteran. Using previously unexplored source material written by the psychologically scarred veterans themselves, this innovative work traces how some of the most vulnerable members of society, marginalized and persecuted as 'enemies of the nation,' attempted to regain authority over their own minds and reclaim the authentic memory of the Great War.

By examining the way these war victims have shaped perceptions of madness and mass violence, Crouthamel is able to illuminate potent and universal problems faced by societies coping with war and the politics of how we care for our veterans.

THE INHERITANCE OF HISTORIOGRAPHY, 350-900

edited by Christopher Holdsworth and T. P. Wiseman
1986 144pp paperback
978 0 85989 272 8 £14.99 / US$27.95
Exeter Studies in History

To what extent did the historians of the early Middle Ages inherit the aims and methods of Greek and Roman historiography? How far were they influenced by classical conventions about literary genre, rhetorical technique and political subject-matter? This book presents nine contributions, on representative authors from the fourth century to the ninth.

INTELLIGENCE AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS, 1900-1945

'INTO ANOTHER MOULD' Aspects of the Interregnum

edited by Ivan Roots
1998 180pp paperback
978 0 85989 417 3 £15.99 / US$29.95
Exeter Studies in History

'Into Another Mould' takes up a number of significant themes about a period which continues to attract the attention of historians, who have in recent years tended to concentrate on the causes, at the expense of the course and consequence, of the troubles of the 1640s and 1650s. This fully revised and updated second edition includes two new chapters.

ITALIAN CITYSCAPES Culture and Urban Change in Italy from the 1950s to the Present

edited by Robert Lumley and John Foot 2004 256pp
paperback 978 0 85989 737 2
£15.99 / US$29.95, hardback
978 0 85989 736 5 £65.00 / US$115.00

Italian Cityscapes examines the transformation of the Italian city from the 1950s to the present with particular attention to questions of identity, migration and changes in urban culture.

THE LAST YEARS OF AUSTRIA-HUNGARY A Multi-National Experiment in Early Twentieth-Century Europe

edited by Mark Cornwall
2002 240pp paperback 978 0 85989 563 7
£16.99 / US$32.50

The eight essays in this volume seek to unravel the complexities of the final twenty years of Austria-Hungary and its eventual disintegration, tackling from different angles the political, social and international challenges to the Empire's existence. The book successfully fills a gap in the market between expensive textbooks and very specialist articles and monographs. It will appeal both to students and to the general reader interested in the Habsburgs and the Great War.

THE LETTERS OF SIR WALTER RALEGH

edited by Agnes Latham and Joyce Youings
1999 466pp illustrated hardback
978 0 85989 527 9 £60.00 / US$110.00

Raleigh's letters, covering both everyday matters and the great crises of Raleigh's life, allow us to savour some of the finest surviving examples of Elizabethan and Jacobean prose. Never before have we been able to get as near to understanding the strengths and weaknesses of one of the best-known figures of English history, the man who was both patriot and European; courtier and failed politician; soldier and poet.

MIDWIFERY AND MEDICINE IN EARLY MODERN FRANCE

Louise Bourgeois
Wendy Perkins
1996 180pp illustrated hardback
978 0 85989 471 5 £55.00 / US$100.00

Louise Bourgeois was midwife to Maria of Medici, Queen of France, from 1601 to 1609, and was the first woman in modern times to write about what she calls her 'art'. Wendy Perkins argues that Bourgeois was an educated, skilled midwife, who contributed significantly to the development of her specialist field. This book gives a detailed account of her life, and then analyses her theories about the workings of the human body in her own particular specialism.

MEDITERRANEAN URBAN CULTURE, 1400-1700

edited by Alexander Cowan
2000 288pp illustrated hardback
978 0 85989 578 1 £50.00 / US$95.00

Was there a distinctive Mediterranean urban culture in the early modern period? The coherence of this collection sets up resonances and comparisons which confirm a considerable unity in the concept of Mediterranean urban culture in its broadest sense.

THE NEW HISTORY OF THE ITALIAN SOUTH The Mezzogiorno Revisited

edited by Robert Lumley and Jonathan Morris 1997 160pp illustrated
paperback
978 0 85989 506 4
£16.50 / US$30.00

This collection of essays brings together the work of a new generation of revisionist historians who argue that the true history of Southern Italy has been reduced to that of a 'Southern problem' viewed through a Northern prism. It exemplifies an interdisciplinary approach and is the first publication in English devoted to the new history of Southern Italy, and brings together many leading figures in the revisionist movement, as well as some of their critics.

THE NEW READING THE LANDSCAPE Fieldwork in Landscape History

Hardback 9780859896771 £55.00/$US100.00

The selected texts—drawn from verse and prose, history, epic and oratory—are presented alongside their English translation, and provide an insight into a world where to think about Alexander was to engage with the burning ideological issues of Rome during a period of intense and often violent political and cultural change.

SHIFTING THE BOUNDARIES

Transformation of the Languages of Public and Private in the Eighteenth Century
edited by Dario Castiglione and Lesley Sharpe
1995 256pp hardback
978 0 85989 4449 £55.00 / US$100.00

This collection of essays, written by well-known specialists in their fields, deals with the problematic and ever-shifting boundaries between the public and the private spheres in Western Europe in the eighteenth century. It examines and challenges the notion that there was a clear distinction between the emerging public sphere and the private, intimate or familial sphere.

SIR JOHN NORREYS AND THE ELIZABETHAN MILITARY WORLD

John S. Nolan
1997 336pp illustrated hardback
978 0 85989 548 4 £55.00 / US$100.00

This is the first biography of Elizabeth I's most trusted soldier, a man who was at one time heralded as the military hero of Protestant Europe and considered as important as Drake and Raleigh. His life is a tale of ambition, rivalry, corruption, violence and achievement typical of the nobility of the Elizabethan age, and provides a marvellous 'grand tour' of western Europe in a time of budding imperialism, religious hatred, international intrigue and military innovation.

THE SOVIET UNION: A DOCUMENTARY HISTORY

Edward Acton and Tom Stableford
Exeter Studies in History

Volume 1: 1917-1940

£16.99/US$29.95
hardback 978 0 85989 715 0
£49.50/US$89.95

This book will be a valuable resource for students at all levels, drawing upon the primary material that has come to light since the collapse of Communist rule in 1991. Combining lucid narrative commentary and a rich selection of evocative documents, it provides a lively entrée to current debate over humanity's most momentous and tragic experiment.

Volume 2: 1939-1991
2007 576pp paperback 978 0 85989 582 8 £18.99 / US$35.00
Hardback 978 0 85989 716 7 £60.00 / US$110.00

Slight overlap of chronological coverage with Volume One allows increased attention in Volume Two to foreign affairs. Areas in this volume that attract greatest student interest are the epic dramas at the beginning and end of the period—the Great Patriotic War and Perestroika.

SPAIN AND THE INDEPENDENCE OF COLOMBIA, 1808-1825

Rebecca A. Earle
2000 263pp hardback 978 0 85989 612 2
£60.00/US$110.00

Between 1808 and 1825, Latin America was engulfed in a wave of revolution that destroyed the Spanish empire in the Americas. Rebecca Earle makes extensive use of previously unexplored Spanish documents to suggest that Spanish royalists inadvertently engineered their own defeat.

SQUADDIES Portrait of a Subculture

John Hockney
1986 192pp paperback
978 0 85989 248 3 £16.99 / US$33.95

This remarkable book is the first ever sociological study of an operational army unit. John Hockney paints a memorable picture of the subculture of private soldiers in today's regular infantry, and he shows vividly how this conforms and conflicts with the formal demands of the military organisation.

DOMESTIC WOODEN ARTEFACTS In Britain and Ireland from Neolithic to Viking Times

Caroline Earwood
1993 320pp. Illustrated hardback
978 0 85989 389 3 £65.00 / US$115.00

In the first published synthesis of the subject, Caroline Earwood traces the changing styles and manufacturing techniques of wooden domestic artefacts, some as ancient as 6000 years old. The book attempts to answer questions about who made the many and varied objects, who used them and how their style and decoration compare with pottery, metal and stone artefacts from the same period.

HEN DOMEN, MONTGOMERY A Timber Castle on the English-Welsh Border: A Final Report

Robert Highman and Philip Barker
2000 192pp. illustrated paperback
978 0 85989 652 8 £49.50/US$95.00

The motte and bailey castle at Hen Domen, Montgomery was occupied from the late eleventh century until c.1300. This volume marks the final stage in the publication of excavations and field-work carried out at the site. The book is profusely illustrated with drawings and photographs, including artist's reconstructions of the evolution of the site.

LANDSCAPE AND TOWNSCAPE IN THE SOUTH-WEST

edited by Robert Highman
1989 142pp. illustrated paperback
978 0 85989 309 1 £14.99/US$28.95
Exeter Studies in History

In this book the study is taken from the later Romano-British into the post-Roman period. The volume examines the re-emergence of Christianity in sixth-century England, the location of ministers and their role in the economy and investigates the problematic theme of continuity or dislocation.

MATERIAL CULTURE OF DAILY LIVING IN THE ANGLO-SAXON WORLD

edited by Maren Clegg Hyer and Gale R. Owen-Crocker

2011 400pp illustrated hardback
978 0 85989 843 0 £60.00/US$115.00

Many lost technologies, which were in use in the Anglo-Saxon world, were as important as electric appliances are today. It is difficult to form an understanding of the historical and cultural background of the Anglo-Saxons without such knowledge. This book introduces selected aspects of the realities of Anglo-Saxon life through reference to artefacts and textual sources.

THE BLOOD-RED ARAB FLAG

An Investigation into Qasimi Piracy 1797-1820
Charles E. Davies
1997 500pp illustrated hardback
978 0 85989 509 5 £60.00 / US$110.00

During the years 1797-1820, the Qasimi Arabs or Qawasim, the inhabitants of the present day United Arab Emirates, acquired an enduring reputation as ruthless pirates. Their actions were to provide the initial stimulus for 150 years of British involvement in the Gulf, but recently it has been doubted whether the Qawasim were in fact pirates. This book sets out to decide this controversial question, making use of valuable and hitherto untapped archival material to strongly evoke a flavour of life in this turbulent and formative period of the region's history.

'a fascinating and scholarly book . . .'

edited by Anoushiravan Ehteshami

1995 423pp. paperback

978 0 85989 451 7 £27.50 / US$49.95

The demise of the Soviet Union, and the emergence of independent republics in its wake, have had profound implications for the regions on its periphery. Nowhere is this more apparent than in the Caucasus and Central Asia. The essays in this book explore the complex ways in which these republics have found both independence and a new regional identity in their relations with the neighbouring Middle East.

GLOBAL INTERESTS IN THE ARAB GULF

edited by Charles E. Davies

XCUSA 1992 432pp.

hardback 978 0 85989 378

7 £60.00

The book makes the point that different countries and continents are conscious of possessing a variety of practical interests in the region: for some, the Gulf represents a market for manufactured goods; for some a field of expatriate labour; for some a source of oil; and, for the Superpowers, an area of conspicuous political and strategic importance.
